

TAFT TALKS ON LABOR

Judge Uses Vigorous Language in His Denver Address.

UNION MEN CITED TO RECORD Democrats Never Passed a Law in Interest of Workers.

DEFENDS HIS OWN ACTIONS

Decisions While Judge in Accord with Law and Evidence.

GREAT THROG HEARS ADDRESS

His Auditorium in Which Bryan Was Nominated is Crowded—Trusts, Tariff and Other Issues Discussed.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 3.—In the same evening the Denver Auditorium, in which William J. Bryan was nominated for the presidency last July, William H. Taft tonight addressed a tremendous throng, setting forth reasons and arguments why the Nebraska should not be elected. Mr. Taft's entry into Denver was under most inspiring political conditions. His stay in the city was but for three hours, and every preliminary to the big street parade and its attendant spectacular features had been most carefully arranged, so that when the Taft special pulled into the union station, the town had on a particularly bright red glare. The streets were profusely illuminated and had not been so densely populated since the democratic convention departed.

Ovation Along Line. The candidate was at once made a part of the festivities. In an automobile he was given the place of honor in the parade and bowed his acknowledgments to shouts and plaudits along the line of march, which included the principal business streets and ending at the splendid Auditorium, whose entire seating capacity had been thrown open.

Mr. Taft delivered the principal speech of the evening. His subjects ranged widely over the various questions of the campaign. He paid his respects to Bryan many times and received encouragement from the audience in so doing. One new feature of his speech was in handling the subject of the sugar industry, which he took as an illustration of democratic proposals towards trusts. Beet sugar, he said, was a trust made article. The democratic proposed to put all such articles on the free list just to punish the trusts. This would, he maintained, not only punish the trusts, but would also punish many innocent farmers and producers as well.

Labor Question Discussed. Judge Taft's language, particularly on the labor question, has been decidedly vigorous and positive. "The thing of Mr. Gompers having the labor vote in his pocket, and of the laboring men believing the lie he tells is something that I complain of."

"I appeal to the clear-headed, intelligent and independent workmen of this country to look into the facts of the law, and if they can find there that I am an enemy of labor, then vote against me. But what I complain of is this: jamming an unrepresentative man who claims to represent labor in order to defeat a man who is in favor of labor."

The foregoing quotations are excerpts from the numerous speeches Mr. Taft delivered today on his trip from Omaha to Denver, by way of Cheyenne, Wyo. His general topics included talks to farmers about the tariff and the necessity for maintaining the protective tariff. He made his views on the labor question known at nearly every stop. But it was at North Platte, Cheyenne and Denver that this subject received the most extended consideration.

His Crowded at North Platte. Candidate Taft was elected when the first demands were made upon him at North Platte, Neb., and a greatly disappointed village was left behind when the Taft special concluded its short stop there for water, as the candidate was unable to appear. North Platte furnished an immense crowd, a large proportion of which represented railroad laborers, and what the candidate had to say was listened to with attention and interest.

Omaha, Neb., furnished Judge Taft with a watermelon, the gift of Keith county democrats. "I'm glad it's a melon and not a lemon," smilingly calculated the judge as he took the gift. At Cheyenne, Colo., the Washburn, Neb., furnished large and enthusiastic crowds. At Kimball, Neb., Senator Dolliver complimented his audience on "this splendid section of Wyoming, and got a merry ha ha from his hearers, who told him he was in Nebraska."

Wynona, Men Vote Party. A committee representing the state of Wyoming boarded the train at Fine Bluffs, consisting of Governor Brooks, Senators Warren and Clark and C. W. Burke, nominee for governor. When Cheyenne was reached shortly after 3 o'clock the candidate was taken in an automobile direct to the local theater, which was packed from the pit to the roof. The candidate spent three-quarters of an hour, and began by saying he was going to divide his time with Senator Dolliver, because the senator was at his very best when talking to women, and especially women who could vote. Then Mr. Taft proceeded to use up every minute of the time allotted for both speakers. (Continued on Fifth Page.)

SUMMARY OF THE BEE

Saturday, October 3, 1908.

Table with columns for days of the week and numbers 1-31.

THE WEATHER. FOR OMAHA. COUNCIL BLUFFS AND VICTORY. Possibly showers Saturday. FOR NEBRASKA—Increasing cloudiness, with possibly showers Saturday.

Table with columns for hours and degrees.

POLITICAL. Senator Dietrich talks with the president on campaign and incidentally tenders some advice. Governor Hughes will tour Nebraska, speaking at Lincoln October 6 and making a flying trip as far west as Holdrege the following day, speaking in the evening at Hastings.

FOREIGN. Battleship fleet reached Manila bay and is being given a royal welcome there. Cholera patients in St. Petersburg are being turned out before order to make room for others.

DOMESTIC. The son of President Roosevelt has been placed at work washing wool in the Thompsonville carpet factory.

NEBRASKA. Bandits cracked the safe of the State bank of Dewese after terrorizing the city.

SPORTS. Results of the ball games: 2-7—Pittsburg vs. St. Louis—1-4. 2-7—Brooklyn vs. Boston—2-0. 7—New York vs. Philadelphia—2-1.

COMMERCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL. Live stock markets. Grain markets. Stocks and bonds.

CHARGE AGAINST EVANS' SON. Son of Fighting Admiral Accused of Leaving His Post of Duty.

MANILA, Oct. 2.—Lieutenant Frank Taylor Evans of the battleship Louisiana and Lieutenant Charles Burt of the battleship Georgia, will be tried before a special court-martial board which will assemble on the battleship Wisconsin October 5.

WESTERN MATTERS AT CAPITAL. New National Bank Authorized to Commence Business at Milford, Iowa.

At His Own Request He is Transferred from Office to the Factory.

THOMPSONVILLE, Conn., Oct. 2.—Theodore Roosevelt Jr., began work of learning carpet making this morning he donned overalls and went into the wool room of the Hartford Carpet corporation's plant to take his place at the wool washing machine.

Young Teddy Washing Wool. At His Own Request He is Transferred from Office to the Factory.

COMMISSION PLAN KNOCKED

MacVicar's Form of Government Rejected by the Convention.

PROHIBITION UNDER FIRE

Secretary of Education and Montreal Convention—President.

Montreal, Wisnipeg, Toronto, Milwaukee, Cincinnati, Duluth and Elgin entered the lists and on the first ballot the vote stood: Montreal, 7; Winnipeg, 1; Toronto, 3; Milwaukee, 8; Cincinnati, 4; Duluth, 4; and Elgin, 4. The four lowest cities were then forced out of the race by motion and the delegates balloted for Milwaukee, Montreal and Elgin. On this ballot the vote stood: Montreal, 18; Milwaukee, 17, and Elgin, 2. A third vote was taken with the two highest as the only candidates and resulted in a vote of 13 for Montreal and 12 for Milwaukee. The election of the Canadian city was then made unanimous.

Municipal government by commission as proposed by Secretary MacVicar and tested in Galveston and Des Moines was knocked galley-west by the League of American Municipalities at the convention in the city hall; prohibition was given some body blows by the mayors of Milwaukee and Atlanta and defended by the mayor of Wichita; Secretary MacVicar was re-elected after Hugo Grosser of Chicago, his only opponent, withdrew and nominated him, and Mayor Cook of East St. Louis was elected president of the league at the closing session Friday.

Mayor Rose on Prohibition. "If you will go back to your homes, throw open your saloons, don't account it a crime to take a drink, but will tell the decent people of your city to take a drink whenever they want it, you will have no drunkenness; but when you say they shall not have it, that old American spirit will assert itself and they will sneak through back alleys and under all walks to get it—not to beat the law, but to beat you."

This was the closing declaration of Mayor David S. Rose of Milwaukee, at a rousing address on the liquor problem, especially as it is viewed in the city proudly proclaiming as being made famous by beer. Mayor Rose spoke without manuscript or notes and he was frequently interrupted by resounding applause, showing that the majority of the delegates believe in regulation rather than prohibition.

"In the city of Milwaukee—liberal Milwaukee, safe Milwaukee, sane Milwaukee, if you please—the saloons, we are proud doors from the ringing in of the new year to the ringing out of the old," said Mayor Rose, "and I am here to challenge contradiction of the fact (and you who have visited our city will bear me out in this statement) that you will see less drunkenness in Milwaukee than in any city in the United States or Canada."

"They say that men are different, but I am here to say that all men are made from mud. We, in Milwaukee, are a free people, who may get a drink whenever we want it, and consequently we have no drunkenness. We never thought of trying prohibition, and that is why we should practice it might last until the end of his term, but he would never succeed himself.

Very Little Crime There. "The government census reports show that the percentage of criminality in Milwaukee is the lowest of any large city in the United States. Our women folks may pass along the most frequented streets of the city at midday or midnight without an escort and without fear of molestation. We have a red-light district—a necessary evil—but we also have strict regulation."

In Milwaukee we have one arrest for every 166 inhabitants; in prohibition Wichita they have one arrest for every twenty-five inhabitants. Lawrence, Kan., has one arrest for every 100 inhabitants, and I am glad to say that there is one city in prohibition Kansas that is gradually approaching prohibition. It does not prohibit; it does not accomplish what it seeks to do; it does not keep men sober. But I will tell you what it does do: Prohibition makes sneaks, criminals and cowards."

"I am here to declare that the primary election law is the greatest intemperity. It was adopted in the north for the purpose of disfranchising the negro; it was adopted in the north to disfranchise the party—and I don't propose to be made the nigger of the north. Two years ago I was a candidate for the nomination for mayor and the democratic party had 2,100 votes. In the democratic primary, however, 25,000 votes were cast. Where did the other 23,000 come from? They came from the so-called reformers. We then turned around and voted in the republican primary, casting but 4,000 ballots in our own primary, and we—the democrats—nominated the republican ticket. I made this emphatic declaration that the primary is a delusion and a snare."

Mayor Rose said that $60,000,000 is invested in the breweries of Milwaukee and that 5,000 men are employed in them. There are 2,000 saloons in the city and they pay an annual license of $20 a year.

More Drinking in Atlanta. Stating that there is considerably more drinking among the young men of Atlanta now than before the prohibition law went into effect, W. R. Joyce, mayor of that southern city, in the state of Georgia, which recently adopted state-wide prohibition, said that he believed the people of his city would today vote for the sale of intoxicants in cafes and restaurants—not public bars. Under the new law the mayor said that people send out of the state and secure quantities of liquor, which they

Secretary of Education and Montreal Convention—President. Montreal, Wisnipeg, Toronto, Milwaukee, Cincinnati, Duluth and Elgin entered the lists and on the first ballot the vote stood: Montreal, 7; Winnipeg, 1; Toronto, 3; Milwaukee, 8; Cincinnati, 4; Duluth, 4; and Elgin, 4. The four lowest cities were then forced out of the race by motion and the delegates balloted for Milwaukee, Montreal and Elgin. On this ballot the vote stood: Montreal, 18; Milwaukee, 17, and Elgin, 2. A third vote was taken with the two highest as the only candidates and resulted in a vote of 13 for Montreal and 12 for Milwaukee. The election of the Canadian city was then made unanimous.

Municipal government by commission as proposed by Secretary MacVicar and tested in Galveston and Des Moines was knocked galley-west by the League of American Municipalities at the convention in the city hall; prohibition was given some body blows by the mayors of Milwaukee and Atlanta and defended by the mayor of Wichita; Secretary MacVicar was re-elected after Hugo Grosser of Chicago, his only opponent, withdrew and nominated him, and Mayor Cook of East St. Louis was elected president of the league at the closing session Friday.

Mayor Rose on Prohibition. "If you will go back to your homes, throw open your saloons, don't account it a crime to take a drink, but will tell the decent people of your city to take a drink whenever they want it, you will have no drunkenness; but when you say they shall not have it, that old American spirit will assert itself and they will sneak through back alleys and under all walks to get it—not to beat the law, but to beat you."

This was the closing declaration of Mayor David S. Rose of Milwaukee, at a rousing address on the liquor problem, especially as it is viewed in the city proudly proclaiming as being made famous by beer. Mayor Rose spoke without manuscript or notes and he was frequently interrupted by resounding applause, showing that the majority of the delegates believe in regulation rather than prohibition.

"In the city of Milwaukee—liberal Milwaukee, safe Milwaukee, sane Milwaukee, if you please—the saloons, we are proud doors from the ringing in of the new year to the ringing out of the old," said Mayor Rose, "and I am here to challenge contradiction of the fact (and you who have visited our city will bear me out in this statement) that you will see less drunkenness in Milwaukee than in any city in the United States or Canada."

TAFT TALKS ON LABOR

Judge Uses Vigorous Language in His Denver Address.

UNION MEN CITED TO RECORD Democrats Never Passed a Law in Interest of Workers.

DEFENDS HIS OWN ACTIONS

Decisions While Judge in Accord with Law and Evidence.

GREAT THROG HEARS ADDRESS

His Auditorium in Which Bryan Was Nominated is Crowded—Trusts, Tariff and Other Issues Discussed.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 3.—In the same evening the Denver Auditorium, in which William J. Bryan was nominated for the presidency last July, William H. Taft tonight addressed a tremendous throng, setting forth reasons and arguments why the Nebraska should not be elected. Mr. Taft's entry into Denver was under most inspiring political conditions. His stay in the city was but for three hours, and every preliminary to the big street parade and its attendant spectacular features had been most carefully arranged, so that when the Taft special pulled into the union station, the town had on a particularly bright red glare. The streets were profusely illuminated and had not been so densely populated since the democratic convention departed.

Ovation Along Line. The candidate was at once made a part of the festivities. In an automobile he was given the place of honor in the parade and bowed his acknowledgments to shouts and plaudits along the line of march, which included the principal business streets and ending at the splendid Auditorium, whose entire seating capacity had been thrown open.

Mr. Taft delivered the principal speech of the evening. His subjects ranged widely over the various questions of the campaign. He paid his respects to Bryan many times and received encouragement from the audience in so doing. One new feature of his speech was in handling the subject of the sugar industry, which he took as an illustration of democratic proposals towards trusts. Beet sugar, he said, was a trust made article. The democratic proposed to put all such articles on the free list just to punish the trusts. This would, he maintained, not only punish the trusts, but would also punish many innocent farmers and producers as well.

Labor Question Discussed. Judge Taft's language, particularly on the labor question, has been decidedly vigorous and positive. "The thing of Mr. Gompers having the labor vote in his pocket, and of the laboring men believing the lie he tells is something that I complain of."

"I appeal to the clear-headed, intelligent and independent workmen of this country to look into the facts of the law, and if they can find there that I am an enemy of labor, then vote against me. But what I complain of is this: jamming an unrepresentative man who claims to represent labor in order to defeat a man who is in favor of labor."

The foregoing quotations are excerpts from the numerous speeches Mr. Taft delivered today on his trip from Omaha to Denver, by way of Cheyenne, Wyo. His general topics included talks to farmers about the tariff and the necessity for maintaining the protective tariff. He made his views on the labor question known at nearly every stop. But it was at North Platte, Cheyenne and Denver that this subject received the most extended consideration.

His Crowded at North Platte. Candidate Taft was elected when the first demands were made upon him at North Platte, Neb., and a greatly disappointed village was left behind when the Taft special concluded its short stop there for water, as the candidate was unable to appear. North Platte furnished an immense crowd, a large proportion of which represented railroad laborers, and what the candidate had to say was listened to with attention and interest.

Omaha, Neb., furnished Judge Taft with a watermelon, the gift of Keith county democrats. "I'm glad it's a melon and not a lemon," smilingly calculated the judge as he took the gift. At Cheyenne, Colo., the Washburn, Neb., furnished large and enthusiastic crowds. At Kimball, Neb., Senator Dolliver complimented his audience on "this splendid section of Wyoming, and got a merry ha ha from his hearers, who told him he was in Nebraska."

Wynona, Men Vote Party. A committee representing the state of Wyoming boarded the train at Fine Bluffs, consisting of Governor Brooks, Senators Warren and Clark and C. W. Burke, nominee for governor. When Cheyenne was reached shortly after 3 o'clock the candidate was taken in an automobile direct to the local theater, which was packed from the pit to the roof. The candidate spent three-quarters of an hour, and began by saying he was going to divide his time with Senator Dolliver, because the senator was at his very best when talking to women, and especially women who could vote. Then Mr. Taft proceeded to use up every minute of the time allotted for both speakers. (Continued on Fifth Page.)

Young Teddy Washing Wool. At His Own Request He is Transferred from Office to the Factory.

THOMPSONVILLE, Conn., Oct. 2.—Theodore Roosevelt Jr., began work of learning carpet making this morning he donned overalls and went into the wool room of the Hartford Carpet corporation's plant to take his place at the wool washing machine.

At His Own Request He is Transferred from Office to the Factory.

COMMISSION PLAN KNOCKED

MacVicar's Form of Government Rejected by the Convention.

PROHIBITION UNDER FIRE

Secretary of Education and Montreal Convention—President.

Montreal, Wisnipeg, Toronto, Milwaukee, Cincinnati, Duluth and Elgin entered the lists and on the first ballot the vote stood: Montreal, 7; Winnipeg, 1; Toronto, 3; Milwaukee, 8; Cincinnati, 4; Duluth, 4; and Elgin, 4. The four lowest cities were then forced out of the race by motion and the delegates balloted for Milwaukee, Montreal and Elgin. On this ballot the vote stood: Montreal, 18; Milwaukee, 17, and Elgin, 2. A third vote was taken with the two highest as the only candidates and resulted in a vote of 13 for Montreal and 12 for Milwaukee. The election of the Canadian city was then made unanimous.

Municipal government by commission as proposed by Secretary MacVicar and tested in Galveston and Des Moines was knocked galley-west by the League of American Municipalities at the convention in the city hall; prohibition was given some body blows by the mayors of Milwaukee and Atlanta and defended by the mayor of Wichita; Secretary MacVicar was re-elected after Hugo Grosser of Chicago, his only opponent, withdrew and nominated him, and Mayor Cook of East St. Louis was elected president of the league at the closing session Friday.

Mayor Rose on Prohibition. "If you will go back to your homes, throw open your saloons, don't account it a crime to take a drink, but will tell the decent people of your city to take a drink whenever they want it, you will have no drunkenness; but when you say they shall not have it, that old American spirit will assert itself and they will sneak through back alleys and under all walks to get it—not to beat the law, but to beat you."

This was the closing declaration of Mayor David S. Rose of Milwaukee, at a rousing address on the liquor problem, especially as it is viewed in the city proudly proclaiming as being made famous by beer. Mayor Rose spoke without manuscript or notes and he was frequently interrupted by resounding applause, showing that the majority of the delegates believe in regulation rather than prohibition.

"In the city of Milwaukee—liberal Milwaukee, safe Milwaukee, sane Milwaukee, if you please—the saloons, we are proud doors from the ringing in of the new year to the ringing out of the old," said Mayor Rose, "and I am here to challenge contradiction of the fact (and you who have visited our city will bear me out in this statement) that you will see less drunkenness in Milwaukee than in any city in the United States or Canada."

"They say that men are different, but I am here to say that all men are made from mud. We, in Milwaukee, are a free people, who may get a drink whenever we want it, and consequently we have no drunkenness. We never thought of trying prohibition, and that is why we should practice it might last until the end of his term, but he would never succeed himself.

Very Little Crime There. "The government census reports show that the percentage of criminality in Milwaukee is the lowest of any large city in the United States. Our women folks may pass along the most frequented streets of the city at midday or midnight without an escort and without fear of molestation. We have a red-light district—a necessary evil—but we also have strict regulation."

In Milwaukee we have one arrest for every 166 inhabitants; in prohibition Wichita they have one arrest for every twenty-five inhabitants. Lawrence, Kan., has one arrest for every 100 inhabitants, and I am glad to say that there is one city in prohibition Kansas that is gradually approaching prohibition. It does not prohibit; it does not accomplish what it seeks to do; it does not keep men sober. But I will tell you what it does do: Prohibition makes sneaks, criminals and cowards."

"I am here to declare that the primary election law is the greatest intemperity. It was adopted in the north for the purpose of disfranchising the negro; it was adopted in the north to disfranchise the party—and I don't propose to be made the nigger of the north. Two years ago I was a candidate for the nomination for mayor and the democratic party had 2,100 votes. In the democratic primary, however, 25,000 votes were cast. Where did the other 23,000 come from? They came from the so-called reformers. We then turned around and voted in the republican primary, casting but 4,000 ballots in our own primary, and we—the democrats—nominated the republican ticket. I made this emphatic declaration that the primary is a delusion and a snare."

Mayor Rose said that $60,000,000 is invested in the breweries of Milwaukee and that 5,000 men are employed in them. There are 2,000 saloons in the city and they pay an annual license of $20 a year.

More Drinking in Atlanta. Stating that there is considerably more drinking among the young men of Atlanta now than before the prohibition law went into effect, W. R. Joyce, mayor of that southern city, in the state of Georgia, which recently adopted state-wide prohibition, said that he believed the people of his city would today vote for the sale of intoxicants in cafes and restaurants—not public bars. Under the new law the mayor said that people send out of the state and secure quantities of liquor, which they

Secretary of Education and Montreal Convention—President. Montreal, Wisnipeg, Toronto, Milwaukee, Cincinnati, Duluth and Elgin entered the lists and on the first ballot the vote stood: Montreal, 7; Winnipeg, 1; Toronto, 3; Milwaukee, 8; Cincinnati, 4; Duluth, 4; and Elgin, 4. The four lowest cities were then forced out of the race by motion and the delegates balloted for Milwaukee, Montreal and Elgin. On this ballot the vote stood: Montreal, 18; Milwaukee, 17, and Elgin, 2. A third vote was taken with the two highest as the only candidates and resulted in a vote of 13 for Montreal and 12 for Milwaukee. The election of the Canadian city was then made unanimous.

Municipal government by commission as proposed by Secretary MacVicar and tested in Galveston and Des Moines was knocked galley-west by the League of American Municipalities at the convention in the city hall; prohibition was given some body blows by the mayors of Milwaukee and Atlanta and defended by the mayor of Wichita; Secretary MacVicar was re-elected after Hugo Grosser of Chicago, his only opponent, withdrew and nominated him, and Mayor Cook of East St. Louis was elected president of the league at the closing session Friday.

Mayor Rose on Prohibition. "If you will go back to your homes, throw open your saloons, don't account it a crime to take a drink, but will tell the decent people of your city to take a drink whenever they want it, you will have no drunkenness; but when you say they shall not have it, that old American spirit will assert itself and they will sneak through back alleys and under all walks to get it—not to beat the law, but to beat you."

This was the closing declaration of Mayor David S. Rose of Milwaukee, at a rousing address on the liquor problem, especially as it is viewed in the city proudly proclaiming as being made famous by beer. Mayor Rose spoke without manuscript or notes and he was frequently interrupted by resounding applause, showing that the majority of the delegates believe in regulation rather than prohibition.

"In the city of Milwaukee—liberal Milwaukee, safe Milwaukee, sane Milwaukee, if you please—the saloons, we are proud doors from the ringing in of the new year to the ringing out of the old," said Mayor Rose, "and I am here to challenge contradiction of the fact (and you who have visited our city will bear me out in this statement) that you will see less drunkenness in Milwaukee than in any city in the United States or Canada."

TAFT TALKS ON LABOR

Judge Uses Vigorous Language in His Denver Address.

UNION MEN CITED TO RECORD Democrats Never Passed a Law in Interest of Workers.

DEFENDS HIS OWN ACTIONS

Decisions While Judge in Accord with Law and Evidence.

GREAT THROG HEARS ADDRESS

His Auditorium in Which Bryan Was Nominated is Crowded—Trusts, Tariff and Other Issues Discussed.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 3.—In the same evening the Denver Auditorium, in which William J. Bryan was nominated for the presidency last July, William H. Taft tonight addressed a tremendous throng, setting forth reasons and arguments why the Nebraska should not be elected. Mr. Taft's entry into Denver was under most inspiring political conditions. His stay in the city was but for three hours, and every preliminary to the big street parade and its attendant spectacular features had been most carefully arranged, so that when the Taft special pulled into the union station, the town had on a particularly bright red glare. The streets were profusely illuminated and had not been so densely populated since the democratic convention departed.

Ovation Along Line. The candidate was at once made a part of the festivities. In an automobile he was given the place of honor in the parade and bowed his acknowledgments to shouts and plaudits along the line of march, which included the principal business streets and ending at the splendid Auditorium, whose entire seating capacity had been thrown open.

Mr. Taft delivered the principal speech of the evening. His subjects ranged widely over the various questions of the campaign. He paid his respects to Bryan many times and received encouragement from the audience in so doing. One new feature of his speech was in handling the subject of the sugar industry, which he took as an illustration of democratic proposals towards trusts. Beet sugar, he said, was a trust made article. The democratic proposed to put all such articles on the free list just to punish the trusts. This would, he maintained, not only punish the trusts, but would also punish many innocent farmers and producers as well.

Labor Question Discussed. Judge Taft's language, particularly on the labor question, has been decidedly vigorous and positive. "The thing of Mr. Gompers having the labor vote in his pocket, and of the laboring men believing the lie he tells is something that I complain of."

"I appeal to the clear-headed, intelligent and independent workmen of this country to look into the facts of the law, and if they can find there that I am an enemy of labor, then vote against me. But what I complain of is this: jamming an unrepresentative man who claims to represent labor in order to defeat a man who is in favor of labor."

The foregoing quotations are excerpts from the numerous speeches Mr. Taft delivered today on his trip from Omaha to Denver, by way of Cheyenne, Wyo. His general topics included talks to farmers about the tariff and the necessity for maintaining the protective tariff. He made his views on the labor question known at nearly every stop. But it was at North Platte, Cheyenne and Denver that this subject received the most extended consideration.

His Crowded at North Platte. Candidate Taft was elected when the first demands were made upon him at North Platte, Neb., and a greatly disappointed village was left behind when the Taft special concluded its short stop there for water, as the candidate was unable to appear. North Platte furnished an immense crowd, a large proportion of which represented railroad laborers, and what the candidate had to say was listened to with attention and interest.

Omaha, Neb., furnished Judge Taft with a watermelon, the gift of Keith county democrats. "I'm glad it's a melon and not a lemon," smilingly calculated the judge as he took the gift. At Cheyenne, Colo., the Washburn, Neb., furnished large and enthusiastic crowds. At Kimball, Neb., Senator Dolliver complimented his audience on "this splendid section of Wyoming, and got a merry ha ha from his hearers, who told him he was in Nebraska."

Wynona, Men Vote Party. A committee representing the state of Wyoming boarded the train at Fine Bluffs, consisting of Governor Brooks, Senators Warren and Clark and C. W. Burke, nominee for governor. When Cheyenne was reached shortly after 3 o'clock the candidate was taken in an automobile direct to the local theater, which was packed from the pit to the roof. The candidate spent three-quarters of an hour, and began by saying he was going to divide his time with Senator Dolliver, because the senator was at his very best when talking to women, and especially women who could vote. Then Mr. Taft proceeded to use up every minute of the time allotted for both speakers. (Continued on Fifth Page.)

Young Teddy Washing Wool. At His Own Request He is Transferred from Office to the Factory.

THOMPSONVILLE, Conn., Oct. 2.—Theodore Roosevelt Jr., began work of learning carpet making this morning he donned overalls and went into the wool room of the Hartford Carpet corporation's plant to take his place at the wool washing machine.

At His Own Request He is Transferred from Office to the Factory.

RULERS ARE CROWNED

King Ak-Sar-Ben XIV and His Consort Queen Ascend Throne.

CORONATION IMPOSING CEREMONY

Quivera's Knighthood in Full Bloom at the Ancient Den.

BALL BRILLIANT CLIMAX OF DAY

Another Cycle for This Great Dynasty Moves on Down History.

ROYALTY ACHIEVES A TRIUMPH

W. L. Yetter and Miss Jean Cadahy Wear the Crowns of Quivera's Court and Are Proud Monarchs.

Table with columns for King, Queen, and names of courtiers.

Carnival Attendance. Wednesday 1908. 1907. 1906. 4,571. 5,029. 4,371.

King's Highway opens at 12 o'clock each day. Madam Frances and driving horse, 2:30 and 8 p. m. Sullivan and Kilrain, 3 and 8:30 p. m. Ballon race and airship fight, 5 p. m. Slide for life, 5 p. m. and 10 p. m. Country Circus—exhibitions hourly. Saturday—Eagle's Day.

Cinderella Ball—Saturday, 8:30 p. m.

Beautiful Quivera is smiling under the reign of a new monarch. While all the assembled subjects of the realm shouted their plaudits and the royal family did obeisance, the crown was placed on the brow of King Ak-Sar-Ben XIV, and his beautiful queen received the royal insignia in the ancient castle of the Kinley family last night. At the climax of the gorgeous festival which the king proclaimed for the entertainment of his loyal subjects the favored inhabitants of the Seven Cities of Chitola and their surrounding provinces thronged the coronation hall and mingled their voices in honor of the pious potentate.

Glorious was the spectacle, but more glorious still was the tribute paid by the people happy in the richness of their possessions and the prosperity of their beloved kingdom under the beneficent rule of the royal family of Ak-Sar-Ben.

Under Gloom of Light.

Under the glare of thousands of incandescent lights the scene was one fitting honor the majesty of the monarch in whose honor it was made. The stately old coronation room had been transformed into a bower of love-lights and everywhere were the colors most loved by the king, the tints of the green grain of the golden harvest, of the rich, red fruit which the soil of Quivera has produced in such abundance during the last season. Festooned and draped in graceful folds the colors of Mondamin, gorgeous by contrast, reflected the myriads of lights on the assembled populace that surrounded the hall. Entwined around the walls and the ceiling of the green fern softened the glint of the lights that shown from the sides. In all Quivera there has been no scene like it. And when the royal procession with measured and pompous tread toward the beautiful dais at the end of the coronation hall, it is not strange that the hearts of the multitude were moved as of one accord to proclaim King Ak-Sar-Ben XIV the most glorious of his line.

Moved by Common Impulse.

Moved by a common impulse, the subjects of the king began assembling at the ancient castle long before the auspicious event was timed to take place. The chivalric spirit of the men and the beauty of the women, increased by the softness of their ball gowns and the glitter of jewels, were fitting adjuncts to the splendid panorama that passed before them. The coronation hall was filled with the bravest and the fairest of all Quivera and the foyer was thronged with the multitudes in ball gowns and dress suits waiting the royal favor of